

Jillian Williams lives in Myrtle Beach, SC with her husband Steve, daughter Annabelle (6), and son Phoenix (2) and is an intervention teacher helping K-3 students gain strength in reading and math. In 2016, Jillian and Steve's daughter, Charlotte Grey, was born 9 weeks early. Charlotte was extremely sick from day one. She lived for three months in the NNICU at the Medical University of South Carolina, and passed away on July 14, 2016. Charlotte's strength and determination to fight for her life amazed her parents each day. The Williams are changed people because of their beautiful daughter, and the family now uses every opportunity to help others who find themselves in the same situation. The Williams are dedicated to helping other families dealing with the loss of a child and the unbearable grief that comes along with and are committed to supporting them through life's most difficult challenge.
