

Emmalee Tresnan, B.S. CCLS, is a certified child life specialist in the community-based hospice and palliative care setting. Emmalee is currently completing her graduate degree with a master's in social work. Emmalee has been certified and practicing in the child life community for over five years. Emmalee received her degree from Florida State University and completed training in hospital-based settings across Florida. Currently, Emmalee serves the adult hospice/palliative population and provides child life services and psychosocial support to children and grandchildren of patients enrolled in palliative or hospice care at Community Hospice in northeast Florida. Emmalee is part of the Association of Child Life, Florida Association of Child Life, Red Cross volunteer and Child Life Disaster Relief member. Outside of Emmalee's work in hospice she focuses on volunteering her services to children affected by disasters and children enrolled in a community bereavement camp. Emmalee has focused on presenting at a variety of conferences to educate and advocate for children facing the death of a parent or guardian.
